BANKING REFORM OUT OF POLITICS

Republican and Democratic Governors Alike Agree on Credit Question.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 .- That banking and currency resorm is of vital concern to the whole country, and that it must be kept out of party polltics, is the unanimous opinion of the western governors who have been touring through the East.

The Democratic governors of Oregon and Montana, in talking with eastern business men, were ever more outspoken than the Republican governors of Minnesota, South Dakota and Wyoming, in saying that Congress ought at once to correct the glaring evils in the American banking system and make money panics impossible in the future.

Oswald West, the Democratic governor of Oregon, said that business men of the far northwest were almost a unit in favor of a revision of the banking and currency laws along nonpartisan lines. He was strongly in favor of a central reserve association and a currency based on the industrial needs of the country.

Governor Everhart, of Minnesots. criticised some of the details of the plan of the National Munetary Commission, but he believed that the right principles of banking and currency reform were in this plan.

"In the panic of 1907," said he, "our western banks broke down through no fault of their own. We needed a big amount of money out. West to move our crops, and our bank statements showed that we had this money, that is, we had it on deposit in New York where we could not get it."

Governor Norris, of Montana, very frankly said that the present banking system was damnable. The yearly shipping of money from the West to New York and its use in Wall Street in speculation, he said; was all wrong. He was heartily in favor of such a reform of our banking and currency system as would provide for co-operation between all the banks of the country keep western money at home, or at least out of speculative Wall Street, and establish more uniform interest rates over the country.

Governor Carey, of Wyoming, said he was heartily in favor of a popular movement among business people whether engaged in manufacturing, merchandising or agriculture, for the reform of our panic-breeding oanking system. It was not a banker's question, he said, but a question for all the people, because it was the people who suffered most from panies and a bad-banking system. Governor Vessey, of South Dakota, thought that the plan of the National Monetary Commission gave a good working basis for legislation. He said that over the West a great many people were talking against this plan because it bore the name of Senator Aldrich, but he believed banking and currency reform was of too vital importance to the business interests of the country, especially those of the West, to be obscured by any discussion of perraonalities.
